way about medicines they would be a great deal better off in health and pocket. A number of so called "blood making" and "flesh forming" "tonic" medicines are only stimulants in disguise. You can't get strength out of a stimulant because strength is not in it. All physical strength is derived from food digested and assimilated and in the form of blood nourishing the entire body. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery does not make blood or make strength, no medicine can do that. But it does cure diseases of the stomach and its allied organs, and so causing the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, it enables the building of the body in sound and vigorous health.

"I can say to you one bottle of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' has cured me sound and well, after suffering two long years with stomach disease," writes W. H. Brewster, of McAdenville, Gaston Co., N.C. "My health is worth all the world to me. I will praise you as long as I live."

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book containing 1008 pages, is given away. Send 21 one-cent stamps the expense of mailing only, for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the volume bound in cloth. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

TRAIN HELD UP.

The Denver and Rio Grande west-bound passenger train No. 315, in charge of Michael Guerin, conductor, and Perrie Ruland, engineer, was held up and robbed by four masked men at Mill Switch, near Chester, on the western slope of Marshall Pass, at 8:50 o'clock yesterday morning. The robbers dynamited the express car and express safes and then went through all the passenger coaches. The amount secured from the express safes is not known, but it is believed to have been large. Most of the passengers lost all they had and the robbers probably secured money and valuables from them running well into the thousands. The train was heavily laden with eastern tourists.

The robbers either boarded the blind baggage at some small station or leaped upon the train as it was slowly pulling up the eastern slope of Marshall Pass. Their presence aboard the train was not noticed, and the first intimation that any of the train crew knew that a hold-up was imminent was when Engineer Ruland was promptly ordered to stop the engine on pain of death. Ruland turned and saw a man wearing a white mask, holding a large club in his hand. "Stop her quick," ordered the masked man. "Get out of here quick," answered the engineer. The masked man raised his club and brought it down upon Ruland's head with stunning violence. Ruland was dazed by the blow. The man was on the point of raising the club to strike a second blow when Ruland said he would stop the engine. He closed the throttle, pulled back the lever, applied the brakes and the long train was slowly brought to a standstill.

One of the robbers was left to guard the engine crew with a drawn revolver, while the others went to the express car. They rapped at the door and demanded admittance. The express messenger promptly refused, even when told that if he did not comply with the order the car would be blown up. The threat was without effect, and the robbers began placing dynamite under the car.

When the charge had been fixed and the cap and fuse arranged, the fuse was lighted and three minutes later a terrific explosion occurred. A large hole was blown in the car and when the smoke cleared away the three robbers were pointing guns inside the car and telling the messenger not to move or make an outcry.

Fortunately the messenger was not injured by the explosion. The robbers then demanded of the messenger that he open the safe or give them the combination. The messenger explained that it was a through safe and that only the officers of the company at either terminal knew the combination.

This was a plausible excuse, and for a brief time balked the robbers. When they became satisfied that the express messenger could not help them they decided to blow open the two safes. They placed a large charge of dynamite under the corners of both of the strong boxes and exploded it.

The charge was a heavy one and the safes were blown to pieces, the contents being scattered around for some distance. The robbers gathered up the loot and placed it in a heavy gunny sack, which one of them carried.

Then the robbers started through the passenger coaches and sleepers and robbed the passengers of their valuables. A few who heard the explosions and realized that the train was being held up hastily secreted some of their money and jewelry under the seats and other places and thus managed to fool the desperadoes.

THE SAME OLD STORY.

J. A. Kelly relates an experience similar to that which has happened in almost every neighborhood in the United States and has been told and re-told thousands of others. He says: "Last summer I had an attack of dysentery and purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I used according to directions and with entirely satisfactory results. The trouble was controlled much quicker than former attacks when I used other remedies." Mr. Kelly is a well known citizen of Henderson, N. C. For sale by Richard Gibson, druggist.
